

Pictured: Nolan Peters

Pictured: Nhu Nguyen

Pictured: Lennox Brown

Pictured: Nash Sorensen

Pictured: Emily Steskal

Pictured: Jordan Rolfe & Zach Schumann

Pictured: Terrell Morrison & Spencer Decker

Pictured: Brianna Oberhelman & Abby Zyla

Pictured: Jacob Colburn

Pictured: Brenden Foote

Pictured: Julia Wagoner

Pictured: Mark Mendell

Pictured: Bailey Peabody

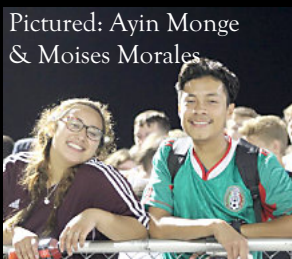

Pictured: David Moritz

Pictured: Mason Mower

Pictured: Lucy Turner

Pictured: Ayin Monge & Moises Morales

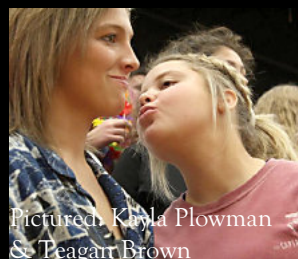

Pictured: Morgan Jace

Pictured: Ysabel Fonseca & Austin Webster

Pictured: Zak Doty

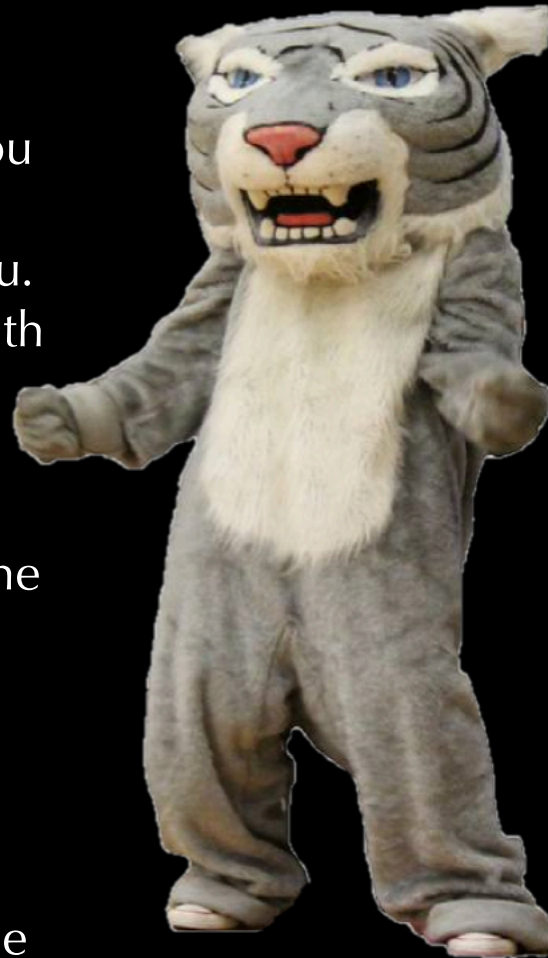

Pictured: Kyra Plowman & Teagan Brown

Cover designed by Tayonna Thomas with Lauren Rambo and Dominique Doiron.

What does it mean to be “A Little Extra”? At Abraham Lincoln High School, we define this phrase as the characteristic of always pushing yourself to go the extra mile, whether that be in sports, academics, or fine arts. This year, we wanted to recognize the students that are always striving to do and be better. This school has a wide variety of individuals that all hold their own talents, and the 120th volume of the Crimson and Blue Yearbook was dedicated to finding them. These “Extra” students have inspired the yearbook staff to take more risks and try new things. This year we collaborated with Lincoln Pride Television to combine still photos with video and really bring this book to life. By downloading the app HP Reveal you can scan your phone over certain photos and a video will play before you. We’ve marked these special photos with a red border so they can be identified with ease. By combining video and photos together, we get to remember our year better. We can look back at the dance teams during homecoming olympics, relive the thrill of football games, and rewatch scenes from the school play. The “Extra” things we do and the memories we make shape the year differently. Think back. What made your year “A Little Extra”?

Editor-in-chiefs Lauren Rambo and Dominique Doiron.

TRIM LINE

TRIM LINE TRIM LINE

OPENING

INTRODUCTION

LAUREN RAMBO & DOMINIQUE DOIRON