All Purpose SOPHOMORES

Sophomores thrive in AP classes

There were 25 AP classes offered at Central, but only two of them were open to sophomores. Sophomores took AP U.S. History and AP Online Psychology and excelled in these challenging courses.

Some sophomores took an AP class at the suggestion of their teachers or counselors. "My counselor put me in AP U.S. History and I'm glad she did because I am learning a lot," said Terreon Howard ('20).

Some students might have been scared to take AP classes because they felt afraid of all the homework and how hard it may have turned out to be. Most classes ran one to two terms, but some of the AP classes consisted of three full terms. "AP U.S. History is three terms long, so it is more of a time commitment," said Lucas Lorber ('20).

One advantage of taking AP classes as a sophomore was that students could take more advanced classes in their junior and senior years. "I will for sure take more AP classes for the college credits and it looks good on college applications," said Andrew Kloss ('20).

AP classes may have been a challenge, but many students agreed that they were worth it in the long run. These classes gave students, especially sophomores, more of a challenge, and their hard work impacted their bright futures. (H. Dreyer)

OVER EASY?

Sophomores describe their hardest classes

"Honors English II is really hard. We have to do a lot of writing and reading that will help us in future classes."
-Dennis Clemensen ('20)

"My hardest class I have taken is Engineering. It may not seem hard, but you have to really focus and pay attention."
-Alexis Huntley ('20)

"I think a lot of my classes are pretty hard, but Biology has to be the hardest. The labs can be fun, but you really have to watch what you are doing."
