I never thought I would participate in an activity in high school that made saying goodbye to it this hard. For the past three years this program has been my rock and all-around safe haven. I consider myself lucky every day for the joy yearbook has brought me throughout my high school career. With that being said, it did not come without its fair share of crying, mental breakdowns on the floor, and shivering in the cold at golf meets. But I wouldn't trade it for the world. This staff was amazing in more ways than I could ever put into words. And after growing with them for the past few years, I am grateful for the friendships and memories that I've made with my staff. I would first like to thank my fellow Editor-In-Chief, Lauren Rambo. You've poured your heart and soul into the staff this year and our friendship means so much to me. Thank you for producing such an amazing book with me. The next person that I will never be able to thank enough is Mr. Appel. You've created an environment within the Journalism department that is not like any of another classroom, you really do not get enough credit for all that you do. You've shown me the most support out of any teacher I've had, and for that I'm so grateful. I would also like to thank our yearbook representative Colleen Arneson, for always supporting crazy ideas and figuring out how to make them work. Your support was always appreciated. I've found a home in the journalism department and that's something that I will carry with me into the rest of my life. This group of girls holds a special place in my heart and I'm looking forward to see what they create after I leave.

As soon as I joined yearbook I knew I was going to work my way up to become an Editor-in-Chief. Yearbook has been one of my biggest passions during my four years at Abraham Lincoln. Though it's caused me endless stress, mental breakdowns, and late nights designing when a burst of inspiration comes through, I wouldn't trade my time training under Mr. Appel with my staff for the world. Without the yearbook and broadcasting staffs, this book wouldn't have turned out as amazing as it did. I'd like to give a big thank you to my partner, Dominique Doiron; your creativity and design made this book stand out among the other 119 volumes. I'd also like to thank you for being my friend and for our "Editor Meetings" that turned into rant sessions. Another person deserving of thanks is our adviser, Mr. Appel. You could've been a lawyer but you chose us instead, and for that I am very grateful. Though we act like we don't appreciate you, in reality we do, and we value your opinion more than anyone else. I also want to thank our Jostens representative, Colleen Arneson, for being so patient when we miss our deadlines and for the endless support to our program. Finally, I'd like to thank my yearbook staff. You're all so creative, funny, and people I am proud to call my friends. I will miss you all dearly and am excited to see where you take the next book.

COLOPHON

The 120th volume of the Crimson and Blue yearbook was created by the Abraham Lincoln Yearbook Staff of 19 students during the 2017-2018 school year. It was printed by Jostens Printing Company in Visalia, California. The Jostens representative was Colleen Arneson. Our theme "A Little Extra" is in dedication to all the students and staff who go the extra mile in extracurricular activities as well as academics. The end-sheets are process color printed on snow white 280. Pages are printed on 100 matte paper. Fonts used: AYT Chltenham, AYT Goudy Oldstyle, AYT Chantilly, AYT Opus, AYT HUXLEY VERTICAL. "A Little Extra" was created on 24 Macs and students' individual Google Chromebooks. Jostens Yeartech Online was used in the creation and design of pages. Portrait photos were taken and provided by Pyles Photography with the exception of seniors' photos.
