The football team was motivated this year by the simple motto "Finish."

The mantra originated with head coach Justin Brekke, who just wanted to see the team finish the season better than the previous year.

The team started using the motto at the Simpson College Football Camp, and it became their guiding principle throughout the season.

To each player, it was more than a saying, it was a belief. "We knew we had the potential to finish the way we wanted to," said junior Caleb Koelling.

The motto was a success. The team finished with the best season for Hudson football in over two decades. The Pirates posted a shutout in four of their regular season games. Then the team started their playoffs with another shutout, defeating Pekin.

The Pirates then took a 15-minute bus ride to the UNI Dome for the semi-final game against St. Ansgar. The Pirates defeated St. Ansgar 41-17, putting them where they wanted to be: the finals.

Though they fell to West Sioux in the championships game, the Pirates did what they set out to do this season: finish.
