

It's a fun world working with kids

Working with kids can be not only fun, but challenging. Senior Ian Brown who worked at Michael's Fun World loved the fun part.

Brown has had many memorable experiences and challenges while working there.

"One time another kid was hitting other kids at a birthday party, so my boss went to talk to them. At that point, the dad started yelling at my boss. Then his wife made me go and stand next to them so that my boss wouldn't get jumped," said Brown.

Although he hated cleaning up the messes they left, he did like the Go Kart because of how he got to witness the funny moments with new drivers.

Concerning the clean up, Brown told this memorable experience. "This one time a little kid threw up in the Jungle Zone. I had to climb through the tubes to look for it, but it turned out not to happen," said Brown.

Though Michael's Fun World was not his first job, it was his favorite due to the fact that he had a nice time with kids and the other employees.

~ Cassandra Snell & Dakotah McReynolds

Matt Dibbern & Nick Robinson @ Toy's R Us

Erica Schumacher @ Toy's R Us

Ian Brown @ Michael's Fun World

Along the road, spend it on the ride for gas, insurance, upkeep, gas, and more gas!

Workin' da job, making da $$$$$$

From the 26 students who responded to the following survey questions, results follow:

Do you have a job?

21 = Yes
5 = No

What is your favorite part of the job?

12 = Making $$$$$$$$
11 = Meeting people

What do you do with your $$$$$$$$?

Save it = 12
Spend it = 5
Save & Spend = 10

Greeting a customer,

junior Dakota Dean awaits the order at McDonalds on Welcome Way. "There are many job benefits that can be different for others, but I think the biggest one is it teaches responsibility and is rewarding unlike a lot of other things high school kids do," said Dean. Photo by Danni Krum

To keep food fresh, senior Selena Dickinson changes out the food. "The struggle with having a job for me was time management. Between going to school and working, there was not much time to do school work or spend time with my niece. Yet, the benefits of having a job are the responsibility and rewards in many other ways," said Selena Dickinson. Photo by Seth Dickinson

Brother, sister team it up at diner

On the job, junior Seth Dickinson starts side tasks. Photo by Selena Dickinson

Serving up pizza, games, kid fun

"It's fun working with kids, but it's challenging and you have to be quick on your feet to help all of them at once when they have lots of demands when playing games," said sophomore Jatavious Clark who works at Jungle Bungle in Happy Joe's on Welcome Way.