

SOPHOMORES

Jeremiah McGregor

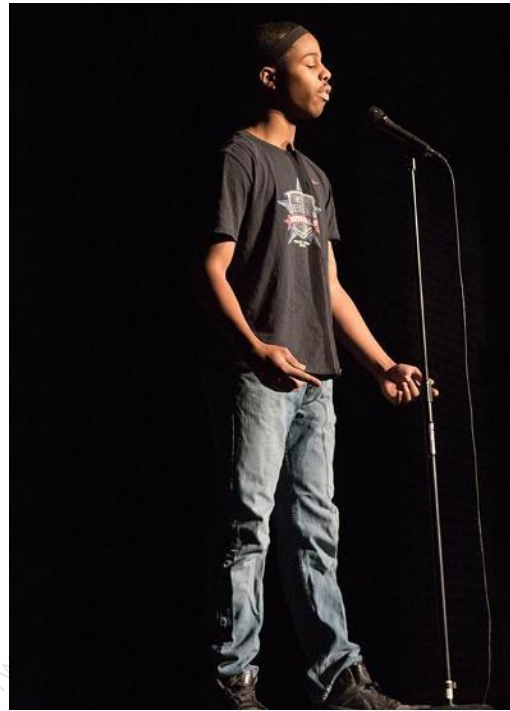

Jeremiah McGregor, sophomore, is known as an aspiring rapper whose stage name is Lil Jay. He slowly started getting into making his own music in fifth grade because he started writing poetry. By eighth grade, he started turning them into songs.

So far he has written about 100 songs and he said by far his favorite one is "The Future Looks A Lot Better For Me." His biggest musical idols consist of a former student whose name is JJ Foster, and as far as famous people go, it would be Kendrick Lamar and Tupac. His biggest supporters have been his dad and the students and staff at North.

This year, McGregor has performed a few times at North. He performed along with two other students in a rap battle after school before winter break, and also performed at the Movement 515 assembly on Tuesday, Feb. 20 during Polar Bear Time. He has performed not only for the students, but also at parties. One party helped him become more popular, he said.

Catch him on his SoundCloud account at "LilJay_FromTheIA" if you want to listen to his music. Follow him on Snapchat at liljayfromtheia to stay connected with him.
