

GO BIG OR GO HOME

"My favorite game was coming back and winning against Marion at the Cedar Rapids Washington tournament."

Ava Hauser (9)

"Having Jennie (Voss) as a coach was so fun! She was always laughing. Even if we lost but still played great, she was proud of us."

Chloe Thein (10)

"In high school, people were more serious and practices were more intense than in middle school. Your record mattered more than in middle school."

Lauren Hoefler (9)

"I liked seeing everybody get their hair done on the bus before a game because there were seven different girls doing hair."

Aleah Heims (9)

"I'll never forget watching Ava Hauser do high knees because she looked hilarious doing them. It was fun to laugh with her about it."

JoAnna Voss (11)

iPad Problems

Coach Brett Mather retired his ten-year-old, ducts taped camcorder and purchased a brand new iPad. Unfortunately, he struggled to operate this new technology as he videotaped practices and games.

Oftentimes, Mather would yell or talk to the iPad out of frustration. He would often hit random buttons in attempt to fix his problems.

"My new technology skills are inadequate," Mather said. Players often assisted Mather with the iPad.

"Most of the time we just did it for him," Allison Collier (10) said. "Other times we would just laugh at him."

Occasionally, when Mather meant to videotape the players, he would take photographs instead.

"He videotaped one of us upside down, and he was really upset about that," Kira Vaske (12) said. "It was funny watching him try to work his iPad."

this season's Dreams

"After working so hard in the off-season, coming back and helping my team after my hand injury was awesome."

- Macey Kleitsch (10)

Jumping to hit the ball, Tehya Demmer (11) earns a kill against the Anamosa Raiders. The Hawks ended the season with a record of 25-20.

At the varsity home tournament, Kira Vaske (12) celebrates after her team earns a point. "It was exciting to beat two teams that beat us earlier this season," Vaske said. "It gave us confidence moving forward and brought us closer as a team."

Taking on Waterloo Columbus in the second round of regional play, Lauren Collier (12) serves the ball over the net to the Sailor defenders. Collier earned First Team All-WaMaC, Academic All-State, and All-District honors. She was also named team captain and team MVP.
